War to End Next April? The subject at the Congregational prayer meeting last Thursday evening was the prophecies of Daniel. In speaking of the various interpretations given by scholars to these prophecies, Rev. W. A. Elliott incidentally mentioned the fact that in reading a work written in the seventies, something like forty years ago, he found a prophecy, based upon a passage in the book of Daniel, that in 1914 the "time of great tribulation" would arrive, and that then would begin the "worst three years and a half in the history of the world." The remarkable thing about it is that world-war, the worst in all his tory, began in 1914, and if the proph-ecy holds good it should end next March or April. We mention this merely as a curious coincidence as we have no faith in the prophecies that have from time to time emanated from per-sons who think they are endowed to reveal the future. We advise our readers not to place reliance upon them. Newton Falls News.

Economy's Real Rule. Resutls of all efforts are best measured by remainders. What is left at the end of endeavor tells the story of success or defeat. This may seem a trite expression, but there is a special application at this time for it. Once, in this city, an old and a wise public We all rally 'round the flag these official, having charge of a public in-stitution, being about to retire to pri-vate life, took his successor to the rear of the kitchen, where long bins for garbage were erected. By inspecting the contents of these receptacles at the end of the day, explained the veteran, a better estimate of the cost of feeding the inmates, of cooking prep-aration and of table service could be obtained than from all the written reports and oral statements of the keepers. Experienced hotel men sedulously watch the exits from the kitchen to the street, and they have an old saying that the saving is made at the rear doors. There is now raging a really humorous hysteria of economy so lame and so false that it excites laughter. It reminds the observer of the excited wom-Howard Hollabangh of Waterford spent last week with Adolph Meeker.
